

YOUNG GIRL IS SAVED BY PRINCIPAL OF SCHOOL

As usual, the moral topic discussed by Prof. Henderson at Weber academy went "right to the spot," to use a common phrase. The professor explained that his work outside the school often takes him to points where it is most convenient to go or come on the midnight train and so he frequently walks to or from the depot between 12 and 1 o'clock at night.

The speaker then gave a graphic picture of the young men and women still abroad—saloon bums, cigarette fiends, the morally and degenerates of both sexes. How are these ranks recruited? Prof. Henderson gave a pathetic instance.

Last Sunday morning at 1 o'clock, while coming from the depot, he noticed standing in front of a notorious rooming house, a young man of questionable character, and by his side a girl, evidently innocent and inexperienced. They were quarrelling in lover fashion. He was saying, "Oh, come on in," and she was holding back, and saying, but rather weakly, "No, I won't. I'm boss tonight," and so the banter went on.

Occasionally, the young man would take her arm to pull her into the dive, and it was noticeable that her resistance was growing weaker. After Prof. Henderson passed them, he stopped to look back again and again, and by the time he had gone a block the girl had yielded. He saw them both go in. He immediately looked around for a policeman, but finding none, hurried home and called up Chief Norton, and placed the case in his hands.

The speaker related two other instances which had come under his notice and remarked that, since coming to Ogden, he had many times had occasion to call the police to protect young women from vile characters.

The moral he drew, however, was that if young people would preserve the purity of their manhood and womanhood, they should avoid being on the streets at night especially at unreasonable hours.

SEAT SALE TUESDAY HARBERTSON - JORDAN WRESTLING MATCH

Manager Goss of the Orpheum announces that seats will go on sale for the big match between Jack Harbertson and Chris Jordan at the Orpheum box office next Tuesday morning at 10 a. m. A big line up at the box office is fully expected as this match has all the promise of being one of the fiercest and fastest wrestling matches ever witnessed in Ogden. Those who saw the last match between the two men are of the same opinion, they are evenly matched and in perfect condition for the battle of their lives, and it means considerable to the victor; another try for the championship of the world. Harbertson will prove a surprise to his friends. With his new and fast work and his knowledge of the Greek's style of wrestling which he gained in his last match. A word to the wise: Those who admire good clean sport, turn out this night; you will see something good at the Orpheum. BANKERS ARE CALLED IN THE J. J. TURNER FORGERY CASE

District Attorney John C. Davis appeared before Judge James A. Howell this morning and filed a statement, rather than an information, in the case of the state against J. J. Turner charged with forgery in sixteen different counts, the statement setting forth that there is no available evidence upon which assurance of conviction can be based. Turner was bound over to the district court October 22 by Judge W. H. Reeder of the municipal court.

In presenting the statement, the district attorney recommended that Turner be released from custody pending the court, however, to make a complete investigation in the case before the order of release be made. He suggested that the attorney for Mrs. Turner and the defendant, J. J. Turner, be advised of the investigation, and that Charles H. Barton, cashier of the Ogden Savings bank, Clerk Sumner Nelson of the same bank, H. A. Moyes, cashier of the Commercial National bank, and Ralph E. Hoag, cashier of the Utah National bank, be subpoenaed as witnesses on hand writing, that the court may be more fully advised as to the situation regarding a prosecution for forgery.

The court complied with the request of the district attorney and made an order that the parties be summoned into court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The statement of the district attorney was but a reiteration of what was published in the Standard yesterday afternoon, to the effect that the wife could not be compelled to testify in the case except by the consent of the defendant, which consent he refuses to give. The defendant denies the forgery and the cashier and clerk of the bank say that the orders upon which the money was paid to Turner were not forgeries.

Judge Howell stated that he was inclined to make the order releasing the defendant from custody instant but would act under the suggestion of the district attorney to hold an investigation, inasmuch as there are evident legal complications in the case. The attorneys for Mrs. Turner, Valentine Gideon and J. N. Kimball, and the attorney for Mr. Turner is James H. Devine.

Mrs. Turner denies the signature on the various orders for money upon which money was paid to her husband, while the husband claims that she signed the orders and sent him to the bank to get the money.

The signature on the various orders will be examined by experts at the hearing tomorrow.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Although wheat prices were a little easier at the outset today, the market later hardened. The opening was unchanged to 1-8c off. After a slight further sag, however, prices reacted to above last night's level.

Corn rallied on account of receipts being small and because of rains southwest. Opening figures were unchanged to 1-8@1-4c down but the market then made a decisive advance.

Unlike other grain, oats showed no early dip. Heaviness in wheat ensued in consequence of stocks accumulating southwest of Chicago and as a result of the better weather in Argentina. The close was steady 1-8 to 1-4c under last night.

Farmers' reluctance to accept corn bids tended to increase bullish sentiment. The close was steady 1-8 to 5-8c net higher.

KICK OF HORSE LEADS TO RECOVERY OF STOLEN SILVER

The Wilson Brothers delivery horse went on a kicking rampage Sunday afternoon and knocked out the end of the barn. In so doing, the animal disclosed the silverware that was stolen from the home of Mrs. W. L. Maginnis last March.

The Wilson brothers are holding the ware for Mrs. Maginnis. It consists of a sugar bowl, a cream pitcher and a spoon holder, all valuable silver. It will be recalled that last March the Wilson brothers ran across a stranger in the basement of their grocery on Twenty-eighth street, near Wall avenue, and when they undertook to detain him he showed fight by drawing a pocket knife. George Wilson, former city councilman, picked up a brick and when the thief approached him between the eyes, felling him. The thug was then overpowered and the police patrol called.

On the man's person was found some of the silverware stolen from Mrs. Maginnis, but not all that had been taken from the house only a short time before was recovered at that time.

The fellow confessed the crime of burglary and was sentenced to the state penitentiary where he is now serving an indeterminate term. He gave his name as Thomas Butler. He had cached the silverware at the side of the barn where it was exposed to view of the kick of a horse.

In the case of the Western Bottling company against John P. Bush, the defendant has filed an answer and counter claim, denying that he has used funds of the company without authority and setting up in his counter-claim that the company is indebted to him in the sum of $500. Aside from asking for judgment for $500, the defendant requests that a mutual auditing of the books of the company be had. BEET SUGAR PAY DAY TOMORROW

Tomorrow will be a big day for collections at the county treasurer's office, as the sugar beet farmers will receive from the Amalgamated Sugar company, $275,000. It is the last day for paying taxes before delinquency and it is certain, the treasurer says, that everybody who receives a check and has not paid taxes for the year will go to the office and settle with the county.

The payday last month at the sugar office distributed something over $15,000 and there is yet a payday to come, the fifteenth of next month. The officers of the company state, however, that tomorrow's payments will be by far the largest of any day of the season.

There are not many beets remaining in the ground, and it will require only a short time longer to harvest the entire crop. The farmers have had ideal weather for digging and rapid progress has been made.
